

Violin Recital.

Monday evening Miss Elvira Clark made her appearance at Murrell Auditorium, Central College, in a recital for graduation in the course for violin.

It is seldom that a pupil carries her work in this department to a finish, and Miss Clark is to be both commended and congratulated. Her improvement the past winter is marked and her playing of the several numbers selected for her enjoyable program was most creditable.

The good tone and smooth bowing exhibited in the "Berceuse" from Jocelyn indicated her ability in sustained and legato work, while the "Gavotte" by Gossec was equally well performed.

The pleasure of the program was added to by Miss Sallie Campbell, who assisted with five modern songs. Miss Campbell was in excellent voice and as usual delighted her listeners with its charm.

The program follows:

|                              |                  |
|------------------------------|------------------|
| Alon the Gstring             | Bach             |
| Abendlied                    | Schumann-Wilhelm |
| Gavotte                      | Gossec           |
| The Nightingale and the Song | Victor Herbert   |
| Berceuse                     | Godard           |
| Hungarian Fantasia           | Keler Bela       |
| Night Song                   | Ashtford         |
| I Know a Lovely Garden       | D'Hardelet       |
| Were I a Bird                | Logan            |
| Life Thine Eyes              | Logan            |
| Brindisi-Valse               | Alard            |

Pheasants Doing Well.

This spring C. A. Keith and Al Gillen distributed a few pairs of Chinese pheasants over the county with the hope that they would multiply and after a few years furnish some good shooting. One pair left on John Keith's farm between Lexington and Odessa has already hatched a family of twelve chicks. The others have not been heard from but it is safe to predict that each pair will produce a like number and that after a few years, if not hunted in the interim, they will be plentiful.

Piano-Forte Recital.

Miss Ivy Shelton, the last of Central College candidates for graduation in the piano department, appeared in a full program Saturday evening; the selection of which consisted of the following:

|                     |          |
|---------------------|----------|
| Fantasia, D minor   | Mozart   |
| Slumber Song        | Schumann |
| Novellette, B minor | Schumann |
| Mi Teresita         | Carreno  |
| On the Sea          | Schytte  |
| Salut d'Amour       | Elgar    |
| Hungarian Dance     | Brahms   |
| Marche Mignonne     | Poldini  |
| Valse Impromptu     | Liszt    |

The player appeared at ease and acquitted herself with credit in such an undertaking.

Without an attempt at discrimination, in conception and execution the first group was exceptionally well done. The Fantasia was played in a free style characteristic of the composition; the Slumber Song was executed in a beautiful, singing style; and the Novellette played with fluency.

Comprehending such variety the recital was very enjoyable and elicited many congratulations at its close.
